

Quiz Details

Quiz Instructions:

You have 15 minutes to complete this open book quiz over

Construction Drawings and Details Chapter 3: Drawing & Drafting Fundamentals

☒ Show Question Details

Question	1 pts
The preferred way to roll a drawing is to do it with the printed information on the _____.
☐ outside
☐ inside
☐ folded edge
☐ bias

Question	1 pts
When hand lettering on a drawing, most designers prefer _____ strokes in lettering.
☐ slanted
☐ vertical ☐ horizontal ☐ varying direction

Question	1 pts
----------	-------

In manual drawings, it is good practice to start the drawing at the _____ portion of the sheet and progress toward the bottom of the paper.

- ☐ upper
- ☐ lower
- ☐ middle
- ☐ bottom

Question

1 pts

When using common line types for construction drawings, _____ lines are used to show major slices in an object or building.

- ☐ cutting
- ☐ hidden
- ☐ leader
- ☐ center

Question

2 pts

Generally, in architectural drawings, _____ lines are used to represent cutting planes and contours (or outer boundaries) of an object.

- ☐ heavy
- ☐ light
- ☐ dashed
- ☐ broken

Question2 pts

In the _____ phase of the design process, some drawings might be in the form of visual abstractions that portray basic issues, ideas, concepts, and physical relationships.

- ☐ conception
- ☐ construction
- ☐ final
- ☐ Design development

Question1 pts

_____ is a particular type of drawing that conveys specific information about something's size, composition, assembly, materials, and other exacting characteristics.

- ☐ Drafting
- ☐ Sketching
- ☐ Ideation
- ☐ Tracing

Question1 pts

_____ lines indicate areas or objects not visible on the surface, or objects hidden behind others. They are also used to show objects above the cutting plane of a floor plan, such as wall cabinets, beams, arches, and so on.

☐ Hidden☐ Contour☐ Cutting☐ CenterQuestion*2 pts

In drawings, the commonly used abbreviation AFF, used in floor plans and electrical plans, stands for _____.

☐ Above Finished Floor☐ All Furniture and Fixtures☐ Above First Floor☐ All Finished FacesQuestion*1 pts

Good lettering is made primarily by implementing _____.

☐ consistency☐ heights☐ slanting☐ emphasis