HIGHLIGHT OF THE MONTH

On October 2nd, our IFMA student chapter held a behind the scenes tour of the College of Human Science at Oklahoma State University. Len Hebert, our Facility Manager of Human Sciences and Steve Ledbetter, OSU Zone 2 Manager, who oversees the operations and maintenance over 30 building on our campus, lead our tour. CJ Hubbard, IT Supervisor for Human Sciences discussed different technology used within the facility and how they relate to maintenance and the quality of the environment. A Former IFMA Student Chapter President and now Interface Sale Representative, Megan Peterson was able to share her experience with IFMA and connected with our students over lunch and cookies which she graciously provided. We were also greeted by Jing Guo, a new Interior Designer on our campus with Long Range Facilities Planning, who wanted to learn more about our building. Thank you to all the professionals that were able to join us!

MONTHLY RECAP

Our IFMA Student Chapter at Oklahoma State University has stayed on track to covering all eleven of the core competencies of facilities management this semester. In October alone we were able to cover seven of the core competencies including; technology, operations and maintenance, quality, sustainability, management, finance, and emergency preparedness. All but one of these were covered in our tour of Human Sciences.

On October 15th, there was a police investigation for a possible gun shot at Edmond Low Library on our campus. Luckily, the noise was caused by construction and not a shooter. While the police were investigating, all students and staff were kept up to speed on the progress of the investigating via text, email, and phone call. For other ways of preparing for emergency situations on campus our IFMA student officers conducted a survey to see how students stay prepared for emergency situations while on campus.
